10. BRIEF SUMMARY OF SIGHTING	11. COMMENTS
Six round objects in two groups of three each - 1 large, two small in each group. Yellowish white. One had slight tail like a comet and was reddish in color. One group stopped the other turned right, then left, then disappeared.	At time of this sighting the sky was completely overcast. Identity or actual appearance of anything in the sky under these conditions is often very questionable. However, on the basis of previous similar rpts this sighting was probably a/c in formation, witness 15 yr old.

Identity or actual appearance of anything in the sky under these conditions is often very questionable — especially in the impressionable mind of a young jerk. On the basis of somewhat similar spots → Probably a/c in formation.
